Kerr Calls Ike Brainless On Fiscal Policy Matters

Remark Draws Sharp GOP Fire On Senate Floor

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP) — Stinging criticism of the fiscal policies of President Eisenhower and Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey touched off sharp verbal sparring between Democrats and Republicans on the Senate floor today.

Sen. Kerr (D-Oklahoma) said that on the subject of fiscal policy Eisenhower hasn't any brains. The senator said fiscal experts could be paraded for months before the President and he would remain just "as uninformed as he is now."

Sen. Capehart (R-Ind.) leaped to his feet and said Kerr should be ashamed of making such a statement "in the presence of school children in the gallery." He suggested that Kerr's reference to the President's brains be stricken from the record.

"I didn't say the President has no brains at all," the Oklahoman said. "He is uninformed about the fiscal policies of this administration."

No White House Comment

At the White House, presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty was asked whether there was any comment on Kerr's statement.

"I wouldn't even dignify it with a comment," Hagerty replied.

When Capehart made his protest, Sen. Monroney (D-Oklahoma), presiding, had to quiet a burst of applause from the gallery.

Much of the debate centered around Eisenhower's request in his January State of the Union message for a presidential monetary commission to study the nation's financial situation. Some Republicans have charged the Finance Committee's inquiry is political and have urged passage of a bill to set up such a commission.

Party Line Exchange

Kerr said of the plan for a presidential commission:

"No man can help Eisenhower study the fiscal policies of this government, because one can not do that without brains and he does not have them."

"I will say to the senator (Capehart) that if the greatest fiscal experts this nation ever produced marched in solid phalanx before Eisenhower for months and gave him the benefit of their knowledge and judgment, he would emerge from it as uninformed as he is now."

The party line exchange, with many senators from both parties participating, was prompted by a speech in which Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.) said Humphrey "confesses" that his 1954 tax policies were a key factor in the inflationary price rises of the last 18 months.

James Cox, Demo Nominee In 1920, Dies At Dayton, O.

DAYTON, Ohio, July 15 (AP) — James M. Cox, unsuccessful Democratic nominee for the presidency in 1920, died at his home here tonight. He was 87.

Cox, Ohio's first three-term governor, served from 1912 to 1918.

Although his health had been failing during the last few years, Cox nevertheless gave attention to his business affairs until two weeks ago and only last month spoke at the opening of a new plant housing the Dayton Daily News and the Dayton Journal-Herald, part of the Cox newspaper chain.

MBS To Be Sold

He said details of the transaction would be announced tomorrow.

Khrushchev Roots For Disarmament, Reassures Czechs

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, July 15 (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev rooted for world disarmament in a speech to the Czechs today, while he pledged "We shall take care that your frontier with West Germany remains well-protected."

The American soldiers are practically able to look right into your windows," the Soviet Communist party boss declared in an address at industrial Pilzen. "But don't worry about that. We shall take care that this border remains firm and protected."

The area between Pilzen and the West German frontier is the former German Sudetenland. Czechoslovakia expelled several million Sudeten Germans after World War II and has since been trying hard to repopulate the area with Czechs. Czechs are nervous about settling there.

Khrushchev blamed the Western powers, particularly the United States, for a lack of solid developments in the London disarmament talks. Those talks, in the five-nation U. N. subcommittee, have been under way almost four months.

"So far things are going badly," Khrushchev said. "They are talking. They are passing papers back and forth. But they are not doing much."

The capitalists think it would be unprofitable to liquidate the cold war. We think it would be profitable. Disarmament and suspension of the cold war are not profitably for the capitalists, but disarmament is profitable for the poorer nations."

Without emphasizing the Russian record of objections to Western proposals in London, Khrushchev said the United States is opposing a ban on nuclear weapons and instead is seeking "some kind of a clean bomb."

He said Czechoslovakia's Communist leaders, with whom he and Premier Nikolai Bulganin have been conferring for a week, fully endorsed the Moscow purge of a dissident group headed by Georgi Malenkov, V. M. Molotov and Lazar Kaganovich.

The 61-year-old president of Aerojet-General Corp. had been married to Mrs. Dorothy Kimball, 55, for 22 years.

New Aga Khan Dedicates Life To Ismaili Moslems

GENEVA, July 15 (AP) — The Aga Khan IV, declared today his life will be dedicated to the service of his millions of Ismaili Moslem followers.

Addressing the first news conference he has ever faced, the 20-year-old Harvard senior said he would be guided in his task by the late Aga's widow, the Begum Aga Khan. He remained silent when asked whether he would consult with his father, Prince Aly Khan.

"All through my life," he said, "I had enormous respect for my grandfather (the late Aga Khan). His No. 1 aim in life was the welfare and happiness of his community. For this reason, he said, he would probably not be able to return to Harvard. "If I think it would be so soon, I follow it as I think they should be carried on, I will go back," he said.

Civil Defense Heads Visited By President

Chief Executive Likes Helicopter, Says Trip "Fine"

NEWSPOINT, Operation Alert, July 15 (AP) — Spurred by a personal visit by President Eisenhower, Civil Defense chiefs today tackled the order-out-of-chaos phase of Operation Alert 1957.

Eisenhower dropped in on the mountaintop secret relocation center by helicopter after spending the weekend at his farm near Gettysburg, Pa. He made a brief inspection tour and then flew to Washington, D. C., ending his participation in the exercise.

The President's helicopter carried Eisenhower and James Rowley, head of the White House Secret Service detail.

Squinting into the bright morning sun, Eisenhower told reporters his trip from the hideaway was "Fine, fine."

"It was good weather and a good way to see the country," he added.

Ike's "Smoothest Ride"

Eisenhower was in a similarly chipper mood when he arrived at the secret relocation center, which is within 200 miles of Washington.

"By golly, you sure have a good morning," he told the men running this show — Gordon Gray, defense mobilization chief, and Lewis E. Berry, acting director of the Federal Defense Administration.

The President called his helicopter flight from Gettysburg "the smoothest ride I ever had in my life."

Eisenhower Friday became the first American president to ride in a helicopter. That was when he left Washington for a secret hideaway just before the capital theoretically was laid waste by a mock attack supposed to have driven 166 H-bombs on 155 Americans.

The attack phase of this drill ended Sunday night. Officials totting up the damage figured 41 million Americans evacuated from the target areas, where populations amounted to 95 million.

That left 54 million unaccounted for. Presumably they were dead or huddled in bomb shelters as long as the radioactive - free canned food holds out. But officially there were no "casualty" figures.

In actually some 80 relocation centers were set up within 200 miles of Washington so the government could keep operating. This one is where all public communications about the federal government are supposed to be channeled.

Last night 5,000 government workers from 30 agencies were deployed to relocation centers. Their task: To run the government during a period 15 days after H-bombing. The calendar was jumped ahead theoretically to that period.

The postal clerk, Jose Padro, 25, claimed he had no idea of the trunk's grisly contents.

As far as could be determined, Malloy had no known source of income. He had worked as a painter in the past. He also was a nonsalaried director of a small concern making coffee urns and tea machines.

Malloy came here from Philadelphia about eight months ago.

A doorman at the Central Park West apartment building where he had a room last saw Malloy alive about 9 p.m. Friday. About 24 hours later, a shipping clerk noticed a peculiar odor coming from the small, tin trunk on the railway express platform. The trunk was marked for shipment to "Hal Jefferson, Hotel Ambassador, Los Angeles, Calif." However, police determined that no such person had made reservations or registered at the West Coast hotel.

Police, called by the baggage clerk, pried open the trunk. Inside, wrapped in newspapers and packed in mothballs, they found Malloy's body. He had died from a bullet through the heart. Two other bullets had hit him in the left shoulder and the right cheek. The body was clad only in shorts.

Bigger tests are in store when voting on the bill itself gets underway. That's expected to begin Wednesday.

On tap are heavily backed moves to tie into the bill a proposal by Rep. Bow (R-Ohi) aimed at ending foreign court trials of American GIs, to cut the size of the aid program, and to knock out long-term authority Eisenhower wants for loans for overseas economic development projects.

Rep. Gordon (D-Ill.), chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee which approved the Senate-passed bill 22-6, served notice he will seek to knock out a committee provision which would bar prospective aid to Communist Poland.

"I had no trouble with my friends," he said. "I think it would be something like money."

"Oh," she said. "I think the nice gift is always something you've made yourself-like money."

Suspect In Trunk Murder

Edward J. Polakowski tries to cover up in a New York police station after being seized yesterday in the trunk murder of ex-Philadelphian James F. Malloy. Detectives said Malloy's ring and wristwatch and a .22 caliber rifle, believed to be the death weapon, were found in Polakowski's apartment. ## Young Elevator Operator Held In Trunk Killing

Three Clinton Girls Testify White Youth Council Their Idea

NEW YORK, July 15 (AP) — A blind elevator operator tonight admitted, police said, killing James F. Malloy and jamming his body into a small, black trunk.

They quoted Edward J. Polakowski, 23, as saying he shot Malloy because "I was up to my neck in debt."

NEW YORK, July 15 (AP) — Police seized a blond, 23-year-old elevator operator today in the trunk murder of ex-Philadelphian James F. Malloy, 53.

Malloy's ring and wristwatch, detectives said, were found in the West 55th st. apartment of the man, six-foot Edward J. Polakowski. Also found was a .22 caliber rifle, which police believed was the death weapon.

The testimony was regarded as important because it was the first time any witness has conceded that residents of the Clinton area took the initiative in forming a pro-segregation group without persuasion from "outside agitators."

All three youthful witnesses agreed, however, that once they decided to organize a white youth movement at Clinton High School, Kasper instructed them how to get a charter from the Tennessee secretary of state.

Such organizations are legal under Tennessee law.

Mrs. French and her young co-witnesses, all former Clinton High School Students, swore the white youth movement did not advocate violence or violation of any laws.

Kasper and 14 Tennessee defendants are on trial on criminal contempt charges. They are accused of violating a federal injunction barring any interference with court-ordered integration of white and Negro students at Clinton's traditionally all-white high school last fall.

As the trial reached the end of its sixth day, James Leo Burnett, 29, of Clinton, production manager of a Clinton hosiery mill, provided some of the most dramatic testimony so far.

Burnett swore that one of the 15 defendants, the Rev. Alonzo Bullock, a part-time preacher and housepainter, stood in front of him during the trouble last year and shouted, in what he described as "a loud and belligerent tone."

"Unless they get the niggers out," he said, "we'll have to move."

CD Expansion Voted By House After Complaint

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP) — The House voted for a bigger and better Civil Defense program today as Rep. Holifield (D-Calif.) complained that "the people are simply casualty figures in the Civil Defense exercises."

Holifield, chairman of a House subcommittee which is plugging for an extensive shelter program, said "the Civil Defense bureaucrats of the federal government live in a shadow world of unreality."

"They play games with imaginary corps, stacked high as mountains," he told the House. "They map pictures of destroyed cities and feed casualty figures into fancy computing machines."

Calling the current Operation Alert 1957 "our yearly exercise in futility," the Californian asserted:

"The bureaucrats are in their element. They have created new empires on paper and they rule their imaginary empires from campus sites and barracks a few hundred miles away from the nation's capital."

"The people are different because they have no place to go. The people are simply casualty figures in the Civil Defense exercises."

This biggest joint maneuver in several years also will include use of some of the newest weapons of modern navies, among them an atomic submarine and a cruiser equipped for firing long-range bombardment missiles. Both are American naval craft.

Approximately 1,000 planes, both carrier and land based, probably will participate.

As part of the maneuver, there will be a temporary buildup of U. S. Marine strength with the 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean, lifting manpower there from a present 1,800 level to about 8,000.

Adm. Jerauld Wright, NATO supreme commander for the Atlantic, and Vice Adm. Robert B. Pirie, commander of the U. S. Navy's Atlantic striking force, gave details today at a news conference.

Concessions By Va. On Bay Fish Issues Seen At Conference

SOLOMON, Md., July 15 (P)—The licenses for as long as 10 years, presiding officer of the Maryland Legislative Council today pictured Roger Laynor, chief of the state Alcoholic Beverage Divisions, told next month's conference with Virginia officials as a chance to demand a license refusal of liquor licenses in the Potomac River to gain concessions on fishing differences in Chesapeake Bay.

Sen. Louis Goldstein (D-Calvert), council president, declared, "this is the first time we've had something Virginia wants."

"The only language Virginians seem to understand is, if you want something, what do you want to give?" Maybe for the first time they'll want to give something."

The council met aboard the state yacht Potomac to solidify its ideas for next month's conference on the river running between the states, which belongs to Maryland.

Regulation of fishing has been a sore point between the states in the Potomac and bay. An agreement has been sought "many, many times for many, many hours," in the words of John P. Tawes, chairman of the Maryland Tidefisheries Commission.

He said the "limit of accomplishment" has been unofficial agreement by Virginia to set aside a sanctuary for hatching crabs near its coves in the bay.

A new issue arose last month when Gov. McKeldin of Maryland blasted issuance of a liquor license by Charles County to a boat anchored off the Virginia shore at Freemstone Point. It is scheduled to begin operation this weekend.

McKeldin, contacted by Gov. Stanley of Virginia, called it a "morally intolerable venture" and urged the Legislative Council to consider what he called "corrective legislation."

McKeldin said he had no definite suggestions but suggested a state agency to control issuance of liquor licenses in counties along the Potomac.

The council, at the suggestion of Sen. Goldstein, offered to sponsor a conference next month, but to include also a discussion of fishing.

Gov. McKeldin agreed to attend, although he was critical of the expanded program which he called "a three-ring circus."

Retort from Democratic legislators to the Republican governor's remark pooh-poohed today's debate, which at times was as hot as the weather on the state yacht, anchored off the Chesapeake Biological Laboratories.

Del. Boone (D-Baltimore County) pointed out the system by which Charles County commissioners appoint a liquor board to issue licenses was signed into law by Gov. McKeldin in 1951. He also recalled that the Charles County delegation, which introduced it, was made up of "all Republicans."

Until six years ago, Charles County liquor licenses were issued by the Circuit Court clerk, subject to review by the State liquor Board.

Six piers jutting out from the Virginia shore into the Potomac runoff voting for the first time in River have had Maryland liquor history.

Stassen Calls For Patience In Arms Talks

LONDON, July 15 (P)—Harold E. Stassen pleaded with the United Nations Disarmament subcommittee today to show patience and persistence in trying to reach a partial disarmament treaty.

Boone, upon hearing this, declared that if licensing of the ferryboat is "immoral, than I assume the others were, too, to insist that a first-step treaty was in sight.

Stassen, apparently moved by Russian attacks on the subcommittee's lack of progress, and some Western reports that an early recess may be called, insisted that a first-step treaty was in sight.

Stassen, leader of the U.S. delegation, said the five countries on the subcommittee were ready to spend years building and designing a new bomber. He urged the same sort of patience be shown in trying to find a treaty which would make such bombers unnecessary.

The Soviet delegate, Valerian Zorin, replied that Russia was willing to continue the talks but he urged Stassen to speed his presentation of U.S. proposals for a partial treaty. Zorin quoted what he said was an old Russian proverb that patience and toll will work their way through the hard rock.

Russia could continue to be patient, Zorin said, except for the fact that more weapons were being built while the talks continue.

Zorin, whose refusal to compromise with Western demands on nuclear matters has led to sharp criticism from British and French spokesmen, offered no new suggestions today.

UTWA Fund Inquiry Set

WASHINGTON, July 15 (P)—The Senate Rackets Investigating Committee voted today to launch public hearings Wednesday on alleged use of union funds to buy costly homes for two top officers of the United Textile Workers of America.

The committee announced it will look into allegations of "misuse and misappropriation" of the union's funds by its president, Anthony Valentine, and Secretary Lloyd Klenert.

Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) said the hearings also will deal with charges that union funds were used for "the purchase of clothing," furniture and costly items in fashionable resort areas by Klenert.

Robert Kennedy, the committee counsel, said Valentine and Klenert still occupy the homes in fashionable Kensington, Md.

Neither Valentine nor Klenert was available for comment and union offices here were closed for the day.

The United Textile Workers of America, a former AFL union, is a affiliate of the Textile Workers Union of America, formerly a CIO affiliate. Both are now in the combined AFL-CIO, under which they have separate charters.

Russian Ship Runs Aground; 250 Drown

TEHRAN, Iran, July 15 (P)—A Soviet vessel ran aground in a storm in the Caspian Sea yesterday and 270 persons drowned, according to press reports reaching here today.

Russian officials at Pahlevi were quoted as saying the vessel, named Eshghabad, piled up on the rocks between Salyany and Baku, while heading for the latter port.

Three Clinton

Burnett testified he accompanied the Rev. Paul Turner, white minister of Clinton's First Baptist Church, last Dec. 4 when Turner escorted half a dozen Negro children through jeering, cat-calling crowds to the school. Turner later was beaten up on the town square.

In an unheralded move, the government dropped its charges against Mrs. Zella Nelson, 19, one of the original "Clinton 15" on trial with Kasper.

Scouts Honor Md. Secretary

VALLEY FORGE, Pa., July 15 (P)—Army brass and high-up civilians, from Washington and from many Eastern states, today joined the unending flow of lesser known visitors to the Boy Scouts' Jamboree City.

It was a special day for nearby Region 3—Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia.

This large contingent, which includes the host delegation, held an impressive ceremony high on a hill under an archway the scouts themselves built at the entrance to their huge camping area.

Several hundred boys gathered in a crescent to watch the presentation of awards to top officials of scouting and to the heads of state from their home areas. An outstanding scout from each section was chosen to hand over the awards and after a brief speech a band played a passage from the state anthem.

Gov. J. Caleb Boggs received his citation for D e l a w a r e. Others were Maj. Gen. Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, head of the Pennsylvania National Guard; Maryland Secretary of State Claude B. Hellman; N. W. Kelley of Roanoke, Va., and Robert E. McLaughlin, commissioner of the District of Columbia.

The awards were presented also to Kenneth K. Bechtel, National Council president of the scouts; Henry B. Grandin, chairman of the jamboree committee, and Dr. Arthur A. Schuck, chief scout executive.

The visiting dignitaries lunched with the scouts from their home territories and later made the rounds of their camp sites.

More Air Force C123s

HAGERSTOWN, July 15 (P)—The Air Force has ordered 18 more C123 assault and logistics transports—"box cars"—from the Fairchild Aircraft Division, the company announced today, bringing the total number of these craft built or ordered to nearly 300.

Russian officials at Pahlevi were quoted as saying the vessel, named Eshghabad, piled up on the rocks between Salyany and Baku, while heading for the latter port.

Killed in the early morning fire were Roscoe Martin, 46, and his four children, John, 15; William, 12; Jerry, 9 and Cheryl Mae, 3.

Mrs. Martin and a guest, Don Turner, escaped unhurt.

Sheriff Cox said the adults had been drinking.

Pre Nuptial Party Given In Honor Of Jean Ramsay

A summer garden and wishing well featured the decorations for the miscellaneous shower and pre-nuptial party, given by Mrs. Edgar McFarland, in compliment to Miss Jean Ramsay, fiancee of Harry William McFarland. It was held Friday evening at the former's home, Ormond Street, Frostburg.

Miss Ramsay, daughter of Mrs. William S. Ramsay, 118 North Smallwood Street, and the late Mr. Ramsay, is to become the bride of Mr. McFarland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. McFarland, 1105 Holland Street, July 26. The ceremony is being solemnized at 7 p.m., in Emmanuel Episcopal Church, with Rev. H. M. Richardson officiating.

The shower gifts were arranged in an old fashioned well and bucket" decorated with daisies. Pastel colored flowers were used throughout the house. A buffet lunch was served with an arrangement of assorted flowers and ivory colored tapers centering the table.

The evening was spent informally and pictures were taken.

Guests were Mrs. Upton McFarland, Mrs. Paul Haberlein, Mrs. Mary McFarland, Miss Annie B. Gray, Miss Margaret Price, Miss Maureen Manley, Frostburg; Mrs. Harry B. ## Council Hears Complaints Flat Water Rate Unfair

Increases in bills to flat rate water users were branded "unfair" yesterday by two complainants appearing before the Mayor and Council.

And Harvey W. Ware, 48 Humble Street, and Homer Berry, 221 Mary Street, said the city had not given sufficient notice of the change to flat rate users.

The complaints followed a Water Department report of July 3 of a survey conducted the past two years to determine the number of additional outlets employed by flat rate water users. The flat rate is based upon the number of additional outlets.

Berry also protested the rate as "unfair" and said residents "are being forced" off flat rates to meters. He also claimed the city had not given ample notification of its intentions other than what had appeared in local news papers.

City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson explained that the flat rate is based on the number of outlets and expressed the opinion if the city is not notified of additional water outlets installed, "then the resident has done the city an injustice."

Berry disputed this statement. He said when he first bought his property, he had been told a flat rate entitled him to unlimited amounts of water and that he paid more for it than the meter user.

Gibson said there have been some flat rate users who let water run all winter to keep lines from freezing.

Berry replied even on flat rate, he was public-spirited enough not to use any more water than he needed.

Gibson further explained the increase based on the number of outlets, said the city has not changed anything but only corrected the amount to be charged. Ware also pointed out that if he goes to meters, cost of the meter must be borne by him and that each apartment in the building would be subject to a minimum charge which would still make his bill higher than he formerly paid.

The discussion closed without any further comment from members of council.

Water rates have not been changed since 1955. Previously, Edwards had revealed that the survey showed 10,038 domestic water users of whom 1,548 are on flat rate.

Judge Harris ruled that Kight should not have pulled out of the traffic line and attempted to park on the left side of the street. Kight had testified he stopped for a pack of cigarettes at the Dingle Drug Store.

Thomas N. Berry, attorney for the Zamoiski firm, cited two statutes on traffic and one of them concerned the parking on the left side of a street facing traffic. There is a red line on the right side of Greene Street at the Dingle.

William H. Geppert was counsel for Kight. Walter C. Capper represented the Travelers Insurance Company, insurer for the Zamoiski firm.

Marsh Named Head Of Area Legion Group

Lonnie F. Marsh Jr., Westernport, was elected Mountain District, American Legion, vice commander at a meeting Sunday in the home of Proctor-Kildow Post, Oakland.

Marsh, commander of Victory Post 155, Westernport, will succeed Charles O. Bender, of Grantsville Post 214.

Marsh, an electrician at the Luke Mill of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, is a veteran of World War II, and served during the past year as Maryland department executive committee man from Mountain District. He was instrumental in the organization of The Blue Angels, crack drum and bugle corps of Victory Post.

Two county commanders were also elected. William Harman of Accident Post, for Garrett, and John Devlin of Midland Post, for Allegany.

The district named Marsh and Frank T. Powers of Farrady Post 24 as delegates to the national Legion convention.

Alternates chosen were Charles Griffith of Fort Cumberland Post 13, and Robert Ferree, commander of Farrady Post.

Picked for the district's representatives on the department executive committee were Russell C. Paupe, Harold W. Davis, and seconded by Fort Cumberland.

The district also went on record as advocating the 1958 department convention be held in Cumberland.

Clean-Up Of C&O Canal Requested By City Group

The stagnant condition of the C&O Canal in South End brought complaints from residents of the area yesterday and prompted the Mayor and Council to request the U. S. Department of the Interior for a report on what it plans to do to clean up the situation within the city limits.

Protests over the condition was voiced by Homer Berry, 221 Mary Street.

Mrs. Mildred Spicer of Blackiston Avenue, joined Berry in complaint over vacant lots overgrown with weeds.

Berry said mosquitoes and odors are a direct result of the canal constitute a health hazard and cause residents discomfort. If the federal government is taking such pride in the canal, Berry

asked that the area from First Street to Montreal Avenue be oiled to keep down dust and also asked that a bad health condition caused by old run in back of properties be corrected.

Buchholz explained that the run is on private property and some owners have refused to let the city enter. However, he said the canal's condition and Street Commissioner William H. Buchholz and the condition should be corrected. Another access has been found to the city and the city enter. The Buchholz project he added, is expected to move that the city contact the federal government on the matter.

Council also heard from Pat

Bittner, 642 Baker Street, who

Berry also said that the city asked that the city pave the off vacant lots, and said residents condition. Buchholz explained of the Mary Street section take that such a move requires a petition in their street. But, he said, from residents and none has said, weeds on vacant lots and been received. If a petition is even in some places which are submitted, an ordinance will be tenanted are very high. prepared and the street paved,

On another matter, Mrs. Spicer he added.

Teenagers To Spark 1960 Economic Boom

Teenagers eat more than their younger brothers and sisters, they are more clothes-conscious, need more room at home, and generally require and get more things that cost money—their own or their parents'.

These are some of the reasons why an economic adviser to President Eisenhower has called American industry's attention to the major upturn in consumer demand that is certain to start in 1960 as it is a fact that a phenomenal baby boom came immediately after World War II and is still in progress.

The magazine Nation's Business, in publishing the alert sounded by Dr. Joseph S. Davis of the President's three-man Council of Economic Advisers, points out that three years hence the number of children annually crossing the threshold age of 13 will increase by nearly 40 per cent—to 3.8 million from the fairly constant level of 2.7 million over the last 30 years.

It is the economic drive the requirements of these young people will provide that is expected to be a major factor in business in the coming decade. But, equally important, studies also show that after the upsurge starts it will, except for minor zigzags, keep on rising.

And 1960 is less than three years away.

A friend writes me:

"... Fundamentally the reason why punishment does not act to deter crime, is because every crime in the book is a symptom of a fundamental disease, and apprehending and punishing the criminal does no good than putting salve on the open sores of one who is suffering from the deficiency disease of scurvy."

This is a point of view that has been growing upon the human race since Beccaria engaged in proposing prison reform. If we sentence a man to reform him, we shall inevitably fail because it is experience that punishment does not improve the criminal, although it may make him afraid.

Eisenhower's Directive Reverses Trend

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—There's more than meets the eye in President Eisenhower's recent directive to all government bureaus to hold down spending.

It isn't any deep plot to take political credit from the Democrats for their efforts to play the role of economizers. Nor is it any contradiction of what the administration has been saying and aiming at right along.

The trouble with political Washington these days is that it can't see the economic forest for the political trees. It is so interested in individual ambition and party advantage that it is indifferent to the basic cause of the present trend toward a dangerous inflation—rise in prices due to the increase in labor costs, and the fact that labor has not sufficiently augmented its productivity per hour. Efficient labor today moreover is scarce and, in periods of full employment, productivity sometimes lags.

Readjustment Inevitable

Fundamentally both political parties have shied away from doing anything that would bring on a recession or depression. Yet some overall readjustment is inevitable and the political impact of a drastic change in government spending policy depends on just when the climax in the readjustment process comes and what areas of the country are adversely affected.

For it is certain that as government spending is substantially down, the wheels of the nation's economy will be slowed down, some unemployment will be created and wage and price levels will be held steady. If a tax reduction takes effect concurrently with the drop in government spending and tends to offset the downward spiral in business, the ultimate result will be a sound economic condition. But in the interval there will be some painful losses. Wherever such adversity occurs the party in power will find the voters registering their protest at the polls.

It is nonsense to say that men kidnap or murder or go into rackets because they are starving. Who that is older than 25 years has not, somewhere along the line, had it very tough and even been hungry at times? But most of us of the older generation expected nothing that we did not earn ourselves and there were no laws to keep boys of 18 with mustaches and sideburns, idle.

I have known many wicked people in my day, gangsters, thieves, murderers, bandits, even kidnappers, the kind of people a newspaperman gets to see and talk to professionally or even socially. Part of my boyhood was spent where on one side, the Kid-Twist Gang was being formed and on the other side, the Paul Kelly Gang was already operating.

My friend's idea that punishing the criminal does him no good has merit, if that is what she means, but when I see a young girl in New Jersey raped and murdered by a dope, or a baby on Long Island kidnapped and thrown among bushes to die from exposure, I have no desire to reform the guys who did it. I want to get rid of them, so that they may not do it again. It is presently regarded as sound sociology to be merciful to the evil-doer, to be tough on the police if they try to discover a criminal, and to ignore the social value of protecting the person against whom the crime is committed. It is twisted logic.

Did the little girl in New Jersey have as much right to live as her rapist and murderer? She did not have a twisted mind. She was not abnormal or subnormal or whatever you want to call the dope. She was just a girl, going her way and living a decent life. This idiot was impelled to rape and murder her because, as my friend says, he was suffering from a fundamental disease. So he raped and murdered her.

But what about her? And what about other little girls that this fellow or similar ones will feel impelled to rape and murder? Are they not to be protected from such compulsions?

And that is what is so wrong about the Jencks and Mallory decisions handed down by the Supreme Court. Suppose you, as a citizen, driving along the road, hear a small child crying in what looks like an abandoned house. Suppose you have been a neighbor of that child and recognize its voice. You telephone to the FBI and express your suspicion that you know where the kidnapped child is.

Your suspicion goes into the raw files of the FBI. They may be correct or not. Up to the Jencks decision, you could be sure that your act of good citizenship would be sacred, that your own children would not be imperiled by an act of revenge. Once the citizen feels he is in such peril, he will not aid law enforcement agencies. The law of self-preservation will guide him.

We take this means of expressing our sincere thanks to our relatives, friends and neighbors who have been kind to us in our recent bereavement, the death of our beloved husband, Father, Son and Brother, Howard G. Kuykendall. We also wish to thank Rev. L. O. McCartney, Minister, and pallbearers, those who sent floral tributes and donated cars for the funeral. The Family.

Rainfall Here Heavier Than State Average

Driest Elsewhere Since 1930 Spell

Without a warm, quenching rain to soak the dry, parched ground Maryland farmers face the possibility of the driest year in the state since 1930.

Western Maryland has been blessed with above normal rainfall for the first six months but quick run-offs and stronger than average winds have dried up the rain to leave this area on a par with the remainder of the state.

Farmers throughout the state are plagued with dry fields, especially on the Eastern Shore where winter silage is being used and pastures and fields remain dry and brown.

Two Below

Only in March and May has the rainfall in Western Maryland been below the normal precipitation for those months. March had only 2.28 inches of precipitation while the norm for the month is 3.0 inches. May's 2.2 inches of rainfall was 1.12 inches below its normal of 3.39.

The normal rainfall for the first six months of the year totals 17.98 inches. The weather bureau in Cumberland reports that 19.04 inches have fallen through June. This is an average of 3.17 inches of rain per month compared to the normal 2.99 each 30-day period.

Only January's average of 29.3 degrees was lower than the normal mercury readings of 31.4 degrees. Temperatures have averaged 50.1 degrees for the six-month period compared to their normal mean temperatures average of 48.5 degrees. Most of the months have shown hotter than usual temperatures, averaging two or three degrees above.

Strong Winds

Robert R. Golden, Cumberland weather observer, said although there have been longer droughts than this before, an unusual amount of strong winds, often averaging 15 to 20 miles per hour has dried up the rain as quickly as it has fallen and the ground has not been soaked as it should.

The average temperatures and rainfall for the first six months of the year are compared to the 1957 totals.

Month	Avg. Temp.	Avg. Rain
Feb.	33.2	37.6
March	41.4	2.19
April	46.7	11.8
May	52.1	55.9
June	56.0	64.0
July	70.9	72.2

Piers For Route 51 Span

Crews of the George Construction Company are making good progress on the foundation for the new bridge over Evitts Creek on Route 51. The modern pre-stressed concrete span will provide two 34-foot roadways, divided by a 16-foot median strip.

Pact To Drop Parking Ban Is Signed For City

Insurance, Vehicle Bids Are Received

Mayor Roy W. Eves yesterday signed and forwarded to the State Roads Commission copies of an agreement for removing "no parking" restrictions on the easterly side of Bedford Street between Decatur and Marietta Streets.

The Mayor was authorized to execute the agreement at yesterday's meeting of the Mayor and Council.

He said the parking ban cannot be lifted, however, until the city's copy is signed and returned by the SRC and the Bureau of Public Roads.

The latter agency recently approved the revision.

Bids Are Received

On information supplied by the city, the SRC had requested the federal bureau to consider the request of residents along Bedford Street for restoration of their parking privileges.

Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan commented: "I'm glad to see a wrong corrected."

The Mayor and Council also received bids on the fleet insurance and equipment and for four cruiser cars for the Police Department.

Fleet insurance bids, referred to Finance Commissioner John J. Long and City Attorney Thomas B. Finan, were received from Nationwide Insurance Company; Carroll Insurance Agency; Samuel T. Weatherholt and Sons; and Macy Insurance Agency.

Cruiser car bids, received from Gurus and St. George Motor Company, were referred to Keegan and Finan for tabulation and report.

Protest Street Closing

Also referred to Finan was a protest from Mr. and Mrs. B. Faye Thompson, 206 Elder Street, over the closing of a portion of Somerville Avenue. The Thompsons own property there and claim closing of the portion would make a dead end street and devalue their holdings.

Routine matters included authorizing payments of $7,250 to Universal Planer Corporation as final estimate for work on city streets; $12,945 to Joseph J. Graciano Company, Pittsburgh, for cleaning and restoring city buildings; and $25 to Frank J. Diamond as a refund on a sewer permit.

Parking meter inspector Harry Whisner listed receipts of $634.81 the week of July 7 compared to $704.30 the week of June 30, a decrease of $69.49 which was attributed to the July 4 holiday.

Calvary Church Has Classes For Children

Two young women who are a part of the National Child Evangelism Movement will be conducting classes for children each morning this week at Calvary Methodist Church, Ridgeley.

Rev. Harold May, pastor, said Miss Donna Bruce and Miss Ellen Bradley, will hold handicraft and flannel-graph instructions as well as tell Bible stories in the classes. The classes are being held from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

Mrs. Verna Skidmore and Mrs. Dorothy Hostettler are in charge of the program and members of the Sunday School staff are assisting the two young women.

Rev. May said a Parents' Night will be held later this week.

Craft Class Set At Mt. Royal

Craft work will be offered at Mt. Royal Playground tomorrow morning.

A wiener roast is scheduled at the playground Thursday and a button show Friday at 2:30 p.m.

Ribbons prizes for the hat show held last week were won by Tom VanOrmer and Gerry Lee Schrock, smalest; Sandra Noland, largest; Adrienne Cody, most unusual; Rebecca Yates, prettiest; Betsy Eberts, most realistic; and Bonnie Price, best prepared.

School Officials Find Summer Is No Vacation

With the opening day of the fall school term approaching much too rapidly for vacationing youngsters, the Allegany County Board of Education staff is quite busy preparing for that date which has been tentatively set for September 5.

One of "the big jobs" is filling existing vacancies in the teaching staffs of various schools throughout the county, especially high schools.

Richard T. Rizer, assistant superintendent of schools, said yesterday that in recent weeks he has been checking with high school principals on the school organization and needs of teaching personnel to complete the various faculties.

Such vacancies occur due to resignations, leave of absence, military draft, marriages, change from teaching occupation to business or industry and transferring to schools in other counties.

This is also the time of the year when all teaching materials are ordered. Requisitions are sent in by the school principals and they are checked by Lewyn C. Davis, supervisor of junior high schools. Such material includes text books, science lab equipment, supplies, as well as recreation equipment.

Special supervisors check and approve materials in certain fields of education including art, home economics and industrial arts.

Another chore which Mr. Rizer and Mr. Davis accomplish is previewing and ordering film for the visual education library maintained in the county school system. They concentrate on high school films while elementary supervisors preview and order films for the grade schools.

Many organizational problems face the school principals, who are expected to be at their respective schools for as long a period of time necessary to assure proper functioning when the fall term opens.

Quite a large number of teachers attend summer school working toward credits necessary for renewal of their teaching certificates.

After receiving their certificates it is mandatory the teachers acquire six hours of college credit before the second issuance of a certificate which is for a four-year period.

Again during this period they must acquire six hours of college credit and the third issuance is good for a six year period when six more hours of college credit must be acquired.

From then on certificates must be renewed every six years.

However it is not all work and no play for the members of the staff who enjoy an annual vacation away from the office routine.

Most of the supervisors work through the month of July and take their well-earned rest during the month of August.

Forgiveness Is In Effect At Local Library
